Remember the Trojans and Lumberjacks, a book documenting the history of the Saginaw High and Arthur Hill basketball programs, is available for purchase or pick-up.

Fans who pre-ordered the books can pick them up starting at 9 a.m. Tuesday at the Saginaw Community Foundation office, 1 Tuscola Street, behind the Temple Theater, or at West Side Decorating, 5789 State Street.

Books are also available for purchase at both locations for $40, cash and check only.

Former Arthur Hill coach Dave Slaggert, who compiled the information for the book, will have a book signing starting at 11 a.m. Thursday at Big O Burgers and Barbecue, 4072 Bay Road, in Saginaw, with books available for purchase.

Next season, the teams will merge into one Saginaw United boys basketball program.

"The whole premise of the book is to keep that story alive and pass it down to future generations so that tomorrow's kids a 100 years from now will know about this wonderful rivalry, these great players, the iconic coaches and the epic games," Slaggert said. "I researched it back to the beginning of the rivalry, back to 1910. I put my heart and soul into it and interviewed as many coaches and players that I could."

Any money beyond the cost of publication will go toward a scholarship at the Saginaw Community Foundation.
